This all day event brings together state and regional GIS experts, educators, graduate students, and faculty using GIS in their research, in addition to community members with an interest in GIS.

This year's event features speakers from all walks of GIS, sharing their work and research using the latest in GIS technology to understand and address local, regional, statewide and global concerns.

Admission is FREE, registration is required at <http://geosummit2016.eventbrite.com>

Parking is $6.00 for the day in the Lower Lake Lot for non-UC participants.

For further information please contact RuthAnne Harbison at harbisonr@cityofmerced.org
